

Support for English Comp

ENGL-0999

Fall 2021 Section E7Z 1 Credits 08/11/2021 to 12/10/2021 Modified 08/04/2021

Course Description (General):

ENGL 0999: In this class, we will practice building skills as writers and critical thinkers, with the goal of producing writing that clearly expresses your ideas about and responses to readings from your main ENGL 1101 course. We will think about and implement workable trajectories for completing coursework that you can feel confident about. Part of our time together will be spent discussing and implementing not only time-management strategies but also emphasizing how to prioritize workload components and to realize connections between investment in writing and the quality of that writing.

Course Description (Specific):

Just as in your main ENGL 1101 course, this course will focus on texts (primarily a documentary, creative non-fiction selections, and short story selections) that highlight standard definitions of a wasteland: "something, as a period of history, phase of existence, or locality, that is spiritually or intellectually barren"; something that is "uncultivated" and/or "devastated." Our discussion will center on not only these definitions but also on authors' interpretations of these definitions and how these "wastelands" bear themselves out in these individual works. We will examine not only physical wastelands, but also spiritual, intellectual, and cultural, mental, and emotional wastelands and the effects of those on places and on individuals that surround them.

Description

This Learning Support course provides corequisite support in reading and writing for students enrolled in ENGL 1101 â English Composition I. Topics will parallel those being studied in ENGL 1101 and the essential reading and writing skills needed to be successful in ENGL 1101. Taken with ENGL 1101, this is a composition course focusing on skills required for effective writing in a variety of contexts, with emphasis on exposition, analysis, and argumentation, and also including introductory use of a variety of research skills.

Contact Information

Office Location and Phone: TLC 3132; Telephone (direct): (470) 729-2613 (Note: This is a GoogleVoice number and will ring through to my cell phone. If I miss your call, please do leave me a message [either voice or text], and I will return your call).

Meeting Times

Student Hours: Since this is an asynchronous course, I will have online hours set aside to meet specifically with students. These will be through Collaborate Ultra (inside CourseDen). I will be available Tuesdays from 10am-11am and on Thursdays from 11am-12pm (unless otherwise noted). If we find, as the semester progresses, that very few of you are utilizing this set time, we can reconsider our options and have virtual office hours by appointment through either Collaborate Ultra or Google Meet. In addition, I am available via email through both my UWG email and also through CourseDen email (please use bjames@westga.edu for more immediate responses since I will get notifications on my phone) during normal business hours (9 am-5 pm). If you email me during times other than those listed, my response may be delayed. You have LOTS of options to reach out to me. PLEASE do not hesitate to do so. Communication is often the key to SUCCESS.

Materials

Texts, Readings, Instructional Resources, and References: Note: All course materials will be provided to you via your Content Bar on CourseDen. Other course materials (ones not listed here) may be added if I feel they will benefit our discussion, and I will note those as well as we proceed through the course. (Note: You will need no additional material for this course—you will use the same material from your ENGL 1101 course.)

- Waste Land (a documentary)
- Creative Non-Fiction On Human and Physical Wastelands (essay selections)
- Wastelands: Stories of the Apocalypse (short story selections)

Outcomes

Course Objectives and Learning Outcomes

As a result of smaller-group discussions about and critical engagement with course texts and the assignments based on those texts, students will:

1. practice a continuation of rhetorical mode strategies in smaller, scaffolded versions of assignments.
2. implement specific techniques of persuasion as they continue to practice crafting clear responses to ENGL 1101 assignments.
3. implement a reasonable mastery of the conventions of college-level prose writing in focused pieces of writing.
4. differentiate between the critical thinking skills necessary for certain kinds of writing, as well as continue to develop such skills.
5. facilitate the entire writing process effectively.
6. construct various organizational strategies in their writing.
7. implement writing strategies that effectively support and develop ideas and arguments.

Evaluation

Your work in this course will be evaluated using three categories:

- 1) Metacognitive Journals (40% of the final grade in the course)
- 2) Process Work (40% of the final grade in the course)
- 3) Final Metacognitive Essay (20% of the final grade in the course)

Please Note: You MUST obtain a "C" or higher in BOTH classes (your main ENGL 1101 course as well as your ENGL 0999 course) in order to exit both courses. In other words, if you fail one, you fail both. Please take this policy seriously and put equal effort into both classes.

Assignments

Assignments/Assessment:

Metacognitive Journals: These journal entries will ask you to reflect upon specific pieces of your writing that you workshop throughout the semester. You will respond to focused self-reflective questions as you complete these specific assignments and will be assessed on your invested participation in these responses.

Process Work: You will respond to prompts which correspond to our text(s) under investigation in our ENGL 1101 course. This gathering and documenting of thoughts will help you focus on and think critically about the major writing assignments, as well as give you notes from which to excavate and pull ideas for your primary assignments. You will be assessed on your invested participation in these assignments.

Final Metacognitive Essay: More specific instructions will be given with the assignment itself, but this essay will allow you to reflect on the work you completed throughout the semester, concentrating on how this work assisted you with succeeding in both this class and in your ENGL 1101 class. In other words, you will be assessed on your ability to demonstrate how successfully you met both sets (both this course and in our ENGL 1101 course) of learning outcomes.

**Also Note: No extra credit will be assigned or accepted in this course. In addition, work completed for another course will not be accepted in this course.*

Schedule

Schedule of Assignments

Our schedule of assignments (metacognitive journals and process work) will mirror/supplement the work we are doing in our main ENGL 1101 course. Specific assignments will be given each week according to that calendar and also according to student need. Look for more details each week in your "at a glance" section and in each individual assignment.

* Course Policies and Resources

Late Work Policy:

Because of the nature of this course, no late work will be accepted. Please be sure that you pay close attention to ALL due dates for coursework. Coursework must also be submitted to the proper locations on CourseDen in order for it to be accepted and count towards the completion of the necessary coursework. No coursework may be submitted through any other avenue (i.e., email correspondence).

Attendance Policy:

Since this course is almost exclusively asynchronous, there is no formal attendance policy. However, course "attendance," meaning your active involvement in the course, will be tracked through the submission of assignments and also through the "Class Progress" tool on CourseDen. Keeping up with work as it is assigned is crucial to your success in the course. If you have any type of issue during the course of the semester, PLEASE reach out to me.

Plagiarism and Excessive Collaboration Policy: (if a student violates this policy, he/she may receive an "F" for the assignment or an "F" for the course at my discretion). Policies on the university's honor code can be found by reviewing the "Honor Code" in the Institutional Policies below. More specific policies with regard to plagiarism, academic honesty, and excessive collaboration are here:

Plagiarism & Academic Honesty: Plagiarism is defined as taking personal credit for the words and ideas of others as they are presented in electronic, print, and verbal sources. There is the expectation that students will accurately credit sources in all assignments. An equally dishonest practice is fabricating sources or facts; it is another form of misrepresenting the truth. Plagiarism is grounds for failing the course (see above).

Excessive Collaboration: By the end of the term in both ENGL 1101 and 1102, along with any Learning Support for ENGL 1101, students should demonstrate the ability to produce independent writing (writing without collaborative assistance of peers, writing tutors, or professionals in the field) that shows an acceptable level of competence. Although numerous course assignments may highlight collaborative learning and collaborative research, excessive collaboration (collaboration that results in the loss of a student's voice/style and original claims to course-related work) is considered another form of academic dishonesty and therefore will not be permitted.

Honor Code

At the University of West Georgia, we believe that academic and personal integrity are based upon honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. Students at West Georgia assume responsibility for upholding the honor code. West Georgia students pledge to refrain from engaging in acts that do not maintain academic and personal integrity. These include, but are not limited to, plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, aid of academic dishonesty, lying, bribery or threats, and stealing.

The University of West Georgia maintains and monitors a confidential Academic Dishonesty Tracking System. This database collects and reports patterns of repeated student violations across all the Colleges, the Ingram Library, and the School of Nursing. Each incidence of academic dishonesty is subject to review and consideration by the instructor, and is subject to a range of academic penalties including, but not limited to, failing the assignment and/or failing the course. Student conduct sanctions range from verbal warning to suspension or expulsion depending on the magnitude of the offense and/or number of offenses. The incident becomes part of the student's conduct record at UWG.

Additionally, the student is responsible for safeguarding his/her computer account. The student's account and network connection are for his/her individual use. A computer account is to be used only by the person to whom it has been issued. The student is responsible for all actions originating through his/her account or network connection. Students must not impersonate others or misrepresent or conceal their identities in electronic messages and actions. For more information on the University of West Georgia Honor Code, please visit the Office of Community Standards \(https://www.westga.edu/administration/vpsa/ocs/index.php\) site.

UWG Email Policy

University of West Georgia students are provided a MyUWG e-mail account. The University considers this account to be an official means of communication between the University and the student. The purpose of the official use of the student e-mail account is to provide an effective means of communicating important university related information to UWG students in a timely manner. It is the student's responsibility to check his or her email.

Credit Hour Policy

The University of West Georgia grants one semester hour of credit for work equivalent to a minimum of one hour (50 minutes) of in-class or other direct faculty instruction AND two hours of student work outside of class per week for approximately fifteen weeks. For each course, the course syllabus will document the amount of in-class (or other direct faculty instruction) and out-of-class work required to earn the credit hour(s) assigned to the course. Out-of-class work will include all forms of credit-bearing activity, including but not limited to assignments, readings, observations, and musical practice. Where available, the university grants academic credit for students who verify via competency-based testing, that they have accomplished the learning outcomes associated with a course that would normally meet the requirements outlined above (e.g. AP credit, CLEP, and departmental exams).
